

I am opposed to the concept that the FCC would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. I currently have an unlisted telephone number and I did so to prevent telemarketing. The majority of the telemarketing calls I received, however, were for people that no longer lived at that number. It did not matter how many times I told them they no longer lived there, I still received calls from the same companies. I voluntarily signed up for the "Do Not Call List" in Indiana. Now that I am on the list, I no longer receive unwanted, harassing calls.

Since I voluntarily joined this list, and I voluntarily decided that this was an important issue for me, I don't believe that the FCC has the right to interfere with citizens' rights to have privacy in their own homes. I was tired of being interrupted on Sundays, during dinner and into the evening hours after I have worked all day. If I want to buy something over the phone, I will do so at my will, not at individuals who are trying to solicit unwanted items.

Please do NOT lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.
